

Tim Bailey's bio:

Tim Bailey is responsible for driving the commercial expansion of the Blockchain-based Service Network (BSN) into international markets and oversees Red Date Technology's Hong Kong office. He has 20+ years of international executive-level experience across multiple roles in general management, business development, product development, marketing, and sales. Tim started his career at Intel Corporation and then subsequently led the expansion of several start-up businesses into new international markets and industry verticals.